JUNE 2023

A BUSY SUMMER IN PENDLETON

Last weekend was the unofficial kick-off of our normal busy tourism season in Pendleton, with both the “Wild West Beer Fest” and the annual Pendleton Pride parade. Much more is on the way. As I write this, the three-day “Jackalope Jamboree” is starting and will expand to entertainment on Main Street this year. This event will be a great kick off to the summer season.

The Fourth of July will have our traditional fireworks (on Monday night, July 3rd) followed the next morning by the VFW sponsored Parade and family-friendly, Community 4th of July Event in Roy Raley Park. The Pendleton Whisky Music Fest will happen on July 15th, followed a few days later by “Pendleton Rides”, which is a motorcycle-themed event. The “Kids Rock and Roll Camp” takes place at the Arts Center on August 7th-11th. Expect “Pendleton Gets Wild” to come back this summer, but only about once per month. You can check with the Chamber of Commerce for the exact Saturdays.

Parents should check out the programs for youth at Pendleton Parks and Recreation. The “Itty Bitty Sports Sampler” is for three to five-year-old children and introduces them to organized sports like soccer and football. While the program is non-competitive, it teaches them to play as team member and is comprised of five 1-hour sessions. The “Summer Adventure Camp” takes place from June 23rd to August 22nd. The “Learn to Play Tennis” program runs from July 11th to August 10th.

The Goats are back! While the official purpose of bringing goats to public properties is to reduce the risk of wildfires and stop the spread of noxious weeds, I find the goats hilarious to watch. They will eat almost anything and are continuously moving and playing. Public Works can usually tell you where they are grazing on any particular day. City staff will be providing information of movement of goats along the river as they move that way. Watch for goat updates via the City Facebook page.

Before we know it, we will be kicking off the Round-Up and Happy Canyon week with the Dress Up Parade on September 9th. Get ready to “Let ‘er Buck”!

PENDLETON AIRPORT TO HOST A RIBBON CUTTING, OPEN HOUSE ON JULY 6 TO CELEBRATE REOPENING

After almost a year of renovations, the Eastern Oregon Regional Airport is excited to announce the reopening of its terminal facility. The airport will celebrate this momentous occasion with a ribbon cutting and open house on July 6th.

Built more than 70 years ago, the Pendleton Airport Terminal underwent a significant upgrade to both the inside and the outside of the building. The $3.9 million Terminal Remodel Project involved taking the building down to its bones and rebuilding, including a new paint job inside and outside, new VAC system, new flooring and carpeting, new windows and completely remodeled restroom facilities. The kitchen at Elvis' Bar and Grill was also completely renovated.

In continuing the commitment to preserving its rich heritage, the Pendleton Airport Terminal also pays tribute to the Pendleton Round-Up, the "Triple Nickles" 555th Parachute Infantry Battalion and the Doolittle Raiders.

Airport Manager Dan Bandel commented on the two historic aviation groups:

"The Doolittle Raiders and the Triple Nickle Smokejumpers were two remarkable groups of soldiers who had a historical connection to Pendleton, Oregon," Bandel said. "The Doolittle Raiders were a team of 80 airmen who carried out the first bombing raid on Japan in 1942, after training at the Pendleton Army Airfield (now the Pendleton Airport). The Triple Nickle Smokejumpers were the nation's first black paratroopers, who were assigned to Pendleton in 1945 to combat Japanese balloon bombs and forest fires. Both groups demonstrated courage, skill and patriotism in their wartime missions, and left a lasting legacy in Oregon and beyond."

Attendees to the open house can experience the new renovations as well as enjoy drinks and food during the event. The event begins with the ribbon cutting at 12 p.m.

"As the largest public airport in Northeast Oregon, we are dedicated to providing the best possible experience for our valued customers and supporting business growth in our region," Bandel said. "We extend a warm invitation to our community and business members to join us on July 6th, starting at 12 p.m., as we unveil the new Pendleton Airport."

Pendleton Regional Airport is located at 2016 Airport Road

PENDLETON PARKS AND RECREATION IS EXPANDING ITS SUMMER PROGRAMMING, AND MOST REGISTRATIONS ARE OPEN NOW.

“We’re looking forward to providing another summer of fun-filled programs for youth in our community, and we’re really excited to be expanding it into teens this year,” Bullard said. “Summer camps and summer programs are so important for building lifelong memories.”

The mainstay of the summer program continues to be Summer Adventure Camp. This weekly camp runs all summer from June 19-Aug. 18 for kids entering first-sixth grade. Campers can register for one week, every week, or anywhere in between. The camp runs from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday at Community Park.

Children can also participate in Learn to Swim classes; STEM nights focusing on science and nature; Babysitting 101; and Smart Kids, a class to train children how to be home by themselves confidently.

Children – and Parents – will also enjoy “Parent Night Out.” Parks and Recreation staff will provide childcare for kids age 5-12, along with dinner, activities, and a movie while parents have a childfree evening. Parent Night out is from 5-9 p.m. on June 9.

For adults, there will also be “Adult Night at the Pool” on July 25 and Aug. 22. This event is open those 21 and older. Teenagers, age 13-18, will also have their own time at the Aquatic Center during “Teen Nights at the Pool.”

For teenagers, Parks and Rec will again be offering the TACO – Teen Adventure Camp Outdoors – program again this year. These camps are three days a week and gives an opportunity to explore the region. Each week will have different destinations, but each will include a hiking component, a water component and an excursion component, such as bowling or mini-golf. The camp is geared toward those entering seventh- to 10th grade.

Teens can also participate in regular teen nights, every other Friday at the Rec Center, starting June 2. Each session will have pizza and other activities like dodgeball, video games, board games, and crafts. Teens can hang out and choose what activities to participate in.

Summer sports camps include tennis and basketball as well as the “Itty Bitty Sports Sampler” where parents can join their preschoolers – age 3-5 – in exploring different sports in a fun environment. Equipment is provided during each class, and parent involvement is required. The Itty Bitty Sports Sampler runs once a week from 10-11 a.m. July 5-Aug. 2 at Pioneer Park.

This summer, top British youth basketball coach Steve Pearl is returning to Pendleton to coach one week summer camps for youth. You can read more about Coach Pearl’s camp here.

In addition to the programs provided directly by Pendleton Parks and Recreation, the department is also working with Pendleton UAS Range and College Community Theatre to offer specialized camps this summer. The Pendleton UAS range is offering four different camps based on robotics and flight, and College Community Theatre is offering two camps, one based on self expression and one theater performance camp.

Other summer programming includes the return of Music in the Park every Wednesday in July at Roy Raley Park and Movies in the Park at Community Park East, Fridays in July and August. Parks and Recreation is offering “Drop-In Dodgeball” every other Thursday at the Rec Center.

Many of the increased programs are possible because recreation programming is now based out of the Pendleton Rec Center on the City Hall campus. Anyone with question about any summer programming can stop by the Pendleton Recreation Center at 510 SW Dorion or call 541-966-0228. The recreation office is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Many of the summer opportunities are offered at no cost to families, including Movies in the Park, Music in the Park, STEM classes, and the Teen Nights. For programs that do have registration costs, scholarships are available for all programs. Contact Pendleton Parks and Recreation for more information on programs or registration at 966-0228
